With the KMPlayer application, you can stream videos from the PC to your phone and tablet without spending lots of time and effort on converting, encoding and downloading. All it takes is a few clicks to configure the connection. KMPlayer Features: Compatible with Android and iOS devices Streaming of high-quality videos from your computer to your device Can be integrated into any wireless network Allows the streaming of videos, without requiring any format conversion KMPlayer is totally free How to use the application: After downloading KMPlayer from the Google Play store, run it on the PC. Select the "Share" option from the menu and make a connection to the mobile device. After the connection is established, the files will automatically be shared. If you are unable to stream the video, double-check if the server is correctly connected to the computer and the network. Connect(r) the PC to the smartphone The connection process is very simple, and all you have to do is follow the on-screen instructions. We found that the application had issues with the connection, and a restart was needed for the process to work properly. The pairing process To set up the connection, you should choose the device you want to stream to from the list of your available devices. Sending files to your phone Once the connection is made, it is possible to share any kind of file, including videos, music and images. Simply drag and drop any file you want into the sharing window of KMPlayer. The files are then streamed to the device and automatically added to its internal storage. The configuration process is easy. Just go to the "Share" menu and select the "Connect" option. You will be asked to set up a password and your device PIN number. Please note that the connection will work only with one of the devices at a time. The video streaming process Once the connection is established, the application will automatically recognize the type of file you are sharing. You can use the "Play" option to play your video files in the KMPlayer app on your smartphone or tablet. It is possible to pause the streaming, change the resolution or set the quality of the video to "low" or "medium." The video resolution, the streaming speed and the playback quality can all be adjusted. This program is compatible with Android devices only K

What's New In KMP Connect?

The KMPlayer Android app provides a set of tools to play and view multimedia files in a variety of formats. Two weeks ago, a major milestone was passed as Wimmy Kitano released the first version of KMP-Connect for Android. KMP-Connect is an application that enables streaming of PC multimedia files to smartphones and tablets. In the beginning KMP-Connect would only stream video files, but now also KMP-Connect has added support for playing music files on PC from local storage. With this new version of KMP-Connect you can stream movies and music files, using your smartphone and tablet as a display and speakers. The KMP-Connect application works perfectly on Windows, Linux, and Mac OSX. KMP-Connect allows you to stream multimedia files of any format, in any size, from a PC to a smartphone, tablet or any device with Android operating system. The application is completely free of charge and easy to use. It is possible to choose the output format and the resolution, and to stream local files or network shares to remote locations. "I am very happy to announce the first version of the KMP-Connect for Android, after I have published it to Google Play. KMP-Connect is the first app I wrote that enables file streaming from the PC to Android devices. I believe the time has finally come for a simple and practical solution for the cord-less and always connected", said Wimmy Kitano. KMP-Connect for Android is a Java application, working on any Android mobile phone or tablet with Android OS. Here is how to use KMP-Connect for Android: – Make sure you have KMP-Connect downloaded from Google Play. – You can select the folder where the shared files are located and set the output resolution. – It is now possible to stream local files or network shares to remote locations. – Please notice that in the beta version we offer only Wi-Fi streaming, no internet streaming.
