Apply css style to particular section of html I want to apply particular style to particular part of html page. ex. I want to apply style to div or span with id: "content". A: This has worked for me. Content goes here CSS #content{color:red;} A: You should use # for id and . for class. HTML Content goes here CSS #content{color:red;} A: #content {color:red;} That would apply the style to the div with the id 'content' But it would apply it to all of the divs with the id 'content' In the same vein as Picasso's 'Guernica' which is displayed in the Basel Art Museum, there are two other works at the museum that carry similar comparisons with its theme. The first is the painting by local artist Matthias Scholl and the second is the sculpture by Olafur Eliasson, an Icelandic artist, who created the 'Art Experiment' which focused on the theme of 'Light'. As such the three works and their links with each other need to be considered together. It is evident from 'The Role of Guernica' (below) by Scholl that his artistic lineage is with Picasso's 'Guernica' but 2d92ce491b
