If I close the application, the program will crash. I'm not sure if it is the problem of the program or the hardware. Can I use the program without registration? If you find any bugs or errors or other problems please tell me. A: If you try to open this program by itself and get an error to report it to the developer, it means that the application was not tested in your Windows system and there is a problem with it. You can also test it on a different machine to see if the error occurs. It's very hard to debug errors because in most cases the developer doesn't provide any description of the error. But the only way to report the error is to contact the developer. The only exception I know of is this kind of application called "SOFTWARE HANGING": "One of the most irritating thing when it is occurring is that a window just hangs there. Sometimes when you restart the computer, the window is still there and the process just hangs there and it takes more than 30 minutes to be shut down. I have even had this problem where the very first window that opens up is full of garbage, the application stops working and all I see is a gray screen with no window." from: AVC Kölsch Avc Kölsch is an American brewer of German-style beer, owned by Firestone Walker Brewing Company.
