Q: Google Sheets - counting number of errors per section / row I have a spreadsheet with unique ID's, which may have a number of errors (e.g. wrong title or value). I want to find the percentage of ID's which have errors. My formula is =CountIf(L26:M26,{"acc_id";"4723";"acct_file_formatted_name";"Test Title"})/CountIf(L26:M26,{"acc_id";"4723";"acct_file_formatted_name";"Test Title"})*100 This returns the percentage of each ID which has an error for the title. How can I get it to show the percentage of ID's which have errors for each section of the spreadsheet (title, values, etc.) Thanks A: You can achieve this using IFERROR():=IFERROR(COUNTA(FILTER(L2:M2, L2:M2="acc_id" && M2 09e8f5149f

It's very different from other shows that involve vendettas in that Colin is actually developing an ulterior motive, which the other characters have picked up on. When he does show up to their trial, he's the first person with any conviction who thinks that what he's doing is wrong. It's funny, too, because we watch him from the outside at the very beginning of the first episode and then we watch him from the inside for the most part, so it's like the question is always, "Which narrative is real?" And then as the series goes on, it starts to blur more and more, and then it becomes, "Which does reality belong in?" And then at
