Photoaffinity labeling of p53 with benzophenone derivatives. Replacement of Cys145 with a photoreactive group allowed the first p53 photoaffinity labeling. Each thioallyl analogue specifically inhibited wild-type p53 to control its function and to block the growth of transfected cell lines, and was binding, differentially, to p53 from different cell lines. This finding provides a molecular basis for comparative studies of the p53 protein among different cell lines.

lunch and dinner recipes Menu Food Share The meal plan I am sharing with you today is the meal plan I am planning to follow for the next 5 weeks of my challenge and is simple, but filling.

This meal plan is 2 meals a day, Monday to Friday. I do eat other meals in between, including healthy snacks, but I am only sharing my main meals, so as not to overcrowd this article. During Week 1 of my exercise challenge, I shared my main meals plan with you. After a few weeks, it seemed as though my nutrition was getting even better. So for this week of my challenge, I would like to share what I plan to eat for the next 5 weeks. The plan I am planning to follow, is a simple but healthy one. Monday:

Breakfast: 1 slice of wholewheat toast with peanut butter, oat cereal and milk, topped with green apple and maple syrup. Snack: 1 piece of wholewheat toast, topped with blueberries and peanut butter and topped with dried fruit. Lunch: 2 slices of wholewheat toast, topped with avocado and tomato. 2/3 cup of hummus, drizzled with olive oil. Snack: 1 sliced apple and 1 bagel with wholewheat bagel, topped with
