

MessageBox.Show(strPrinter1.Substring(findPrinter).ToString()); However, my first test was with the Substring function which outputs the 4 letters I am looking for based on the number provided in the randomizer for the same string. Why is the output of these 2 functions the same and why does one not work and the other one does? A: Assignment Why is the output of these 2 functions the same and why does one not work and the other one does? Well, string is a collection of chars and you are giving it a substring of only 4 chars. Depending on what you want to do, you should use String.SubString: string mystring = "select * from @dblink (format randomstring('L', 10000), format id)"; string[] result = mystring.SubString(findPrinter,findPrinter.Length); MessageBox.Show(result[0].ToString()); MessageBox.Show(result[1].ToString()); If you want something more, you can use string methods: result[0] = mystring.Substring(mystring.IndexOf(findPrinter), findPrinter.Length); result[1] = mystring.Substring(mystring.IndexOf(findPrinter) + findPrinter.Length, result[0].Length).Trim(); MessageBox.Show(result[0].ToString()); MessageBox.Show(result[1].ToString()); Is it what you want? If you want to stick with Substring, you should define a larger range, as Substring keeps the index: string mystring = "select * from @dblink (format randomstring('L', 10000), format id)"; string[] result = mystring.Substring(findPrinter,findPrinter.Length + lengthOfFoundStrings); result[0] = mystring.Substring(mystring.IndexOf(findPrinter), findPrinter.Length); result[1] = mystring.Substring(mystring.IndexOf(findPrinter) + findPrinter.Length, result[0].Length).Trim(); MessageBox.Show(result[0].ToString()); MessageBox.Show(result[1].ToString());

The 35-year anniversary was recognized Wednesday in a ceremony attended by faculty, staff and students. The South Carolina Community College and Technical Institute System is celebrating the milestone in several ways. There will be a free festival on the 16-acre campus at 1620 E. 51st St. A Celebration of Innovation will be held Feb. 6. "To me, this is the culmination of everything we've done for the last 35 years," said Jason Rose, professor of music, who will be recognized at the ceremony. "I've been a faculty member here for 29 of the 35 years, and for the past five, the student experience has been so good that I haven't had a great deal of reason to be here."
